

INAMP launches the Professional Development Course "Regulatory Impact Analysis"

The National Institute of Public Administration and Management (INAMP) invites representatives of public administration authorities to participate in the professional development course dedicated to the development of the necessary skills for the development and evaluation of public policies based on evidence, through the application of Regulatory Impact Analysis (AIR).

The program aims to develop the following skills:

- understanding the principles and stages of AIR;
- Analysis of regulatory options and alternatives;
- Assessment of the economic, social and administrative impact of regulations;
- Practical application of AIR through case studies.

The training is provided by Roman Laduș, Expert within the Economic Council under the Prime Minister of the Republic of Moldova.

The course emphasizes the development of practical skills necessary for the development of effective, transparent and substantiated regulations, contributing to the improvement of the decision-making process in public administration.
